Once you have the swords, start practicing with Humphrey. He sucks, and there is no way of improving him. No matter how much you scold him or encourage him. Scolding him will make him more afraid of you, increasing the chances of him hiding with the ladies at the pool, forcing you to listen to his poetry.

Showing some understanding will cause him to open to you, and he’ll eventually tell you he desires to be an actor or poet. If you have noticed the actors at The Moist Maiden (if not, visit The Moist Maiden during the day) you can tell him to seek out the actors there.
